

MOTEL SANS

Definition Motel Sans is a monolinear typeface with a uniform character height. It forms a pleasant, monumental placard majuscule in its default setting, but changes into a very dynamic and convivial display type upon selecting one of the available stylistic sets. Its character is then reminiscent of the so-called hybrid uppercases, in which uppercase and lowercase letters alternate, creating an unusually dramatic effect. Lowercase alternations are reserved for most of the characteristic letters of the typeface such as "á", "é", "t", "y" and several others. The lowercase "i" and "j" stand out from the set by having a lower height so as to include the dots above them. Motel Sans and Slab also have an additional extensive frame set, available upon selecting the appropriate stylistic set. This encompasses not only the basic character set, but also alternative characters (interchangeable through stylistic set combinations), currency symbols and punctuation, so that typesetting of complex combinations is possible. You will be able to utilise the font's elegant frame set in posters, directional signs or other signpost typesettings.
